Course Description

Trauma-Focused Cognitive Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT) is a components-based psychosocial treatment model that incorporates elements of cognitive-behavioral, attachment, humanistic, empowerment and family therapy models. TF-CBT is an evidence-based therapy model that supports healing for children and adolescents, with a focus on youth and their families.

This course is intended for master or doctoral level mental health clinicians.

Prerequisite:

A recommended prerequisite TF-CBT course is available online. This introductory, 11-hour course has a fee of $35 (11 CEUs). The online course meets partial requirements for national certification in TF-CBT. Learn more and register at musc.edu/tfcbt2.
