Responding to Michigan's Mental Health Crisis: Tele Health Innovations for Improving Access to Care

With Natalie Kasiborski, PhD, LMSW, MPH, consultant for the School Community Health Alliance of Michigan and assistant professor for Michigan State University, and Reid Plimpton, MPH, project manager for the Northeast Telehealth Resource Center:

- Explore telehealth considerations when meeting with adolescents and young adults.
- Engage with experts to gain insights on current tele mental health topics.
- Enhance community mental health services by building capacity and connections in rural and underserved communities.
- Identify tele health strategies for improving access to care and developing successful patient outcomes by exchanging perspectives with colleagues and experts.

Learn about CMU tele health initiatives including:

- Preventing Suicide in Michigan Men (PRISMM).
- Broadband Rural Capacity Assessment.
- Rural Tele Behavioral Health Outreach.
